

NEW ENTRANCE?—Donald Richard, operator of this wrecker reported brake failure caused the vehicle to crash into the front of Cathy's Lounge, U.S. 90 West of Waveland, around noon on Saturday. Richard, an employee of Joey Spears' Salvage Yard, said someone made a parts purchase and he need some change. When he when he tried to stop, the brake peddle went all the way to the floor, and the wrecker paused at the curb and then went over into the building. The building is owned by Irene Betz. Answer on gill net issue expected within 30 days

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors is still waiting for an opinion on gill nets from State Attorney General Mike Moore's office, but an answer could be available by the end of April.
Board Attorney Gerald Gex told the board he had sent a letter to Moore's office on March 30 to try to obtain the opinion, but as of Friday's meeting had received no reply.
Gex wants to find out exactly what the board can and can not do to regulate use of gill nets along the county shoreline.
He said he had been notified several weeks ago that requests for attorney general's opinions, which used to take an indefinite period of time, will now be answered within 30 days.
Beat One Supervisor Robert Peterson explained the board's current stance on gill nets after the meeting.
"I don't think you could say any supervisor here is against gill nets or against the fishermen, but the people in general don't want them," he said.

Peterson conducted a random telephone poll among his constituents recently and talked to "at least 200 people."
"The overwhelming majority I talked to would like to see gill nets off the beach," he said.
He also talked with a Waveland alderman, Stella Frilot, whose district lies inside Beat One. She did a similar poll last year and told him she had found most people against gill nets.
Another supervisor, Wilmer Seymour of Beat Five, said he receives about the same number of calls on gills nets as he does on mullet boats, which draw a number of complaints regarding interference with the launching of boats near the Washington Street pier.
"It would probably take two separate actions, but at this point, I'd say we need to stop both," Seymour said. He added that he was basing his opinion on the number of complaints he has received rather than personal feelings about the matter.

Peterson said he would be in favor of holding a public hearing on gill netting as the previous administration did, but he does not want to do it until the attorney general's opinion provides the board some guidance.
At the time of the last public hearing, counties had not yet been given home rule authority by the Mississippi Legislature, meaning that a board of supervisors could take no action not specifically directed by statute.
Gex said he wants to find out if having home rule, which broadens the county's authority to some degree, affects its options regarding gill net ordinances.
The board of supervisors will meet again at 9 a.m. April 27 in the upstairs boardroom of the Hancock County Courthouse.

Clermont Harbor man wants tighter gill net enforcement

BY JANET MCQUEEN
Jim Maness enjoys fishing, but only catches fish hungry enough to bite his artificial bait.
The Clermont Harbor resident is an outspoken opponent of gill net fishing—in which fine netting stretching 1,200-1,500 feet across portions of the Gulf trap mullet and other fish attempting to swim through it.
"Most of the fish caught in these nets are killed," said Maness. "I have seen 20-30 dead red fish floating next to a net. Another time I observed nine brown pelicans trapped."

He notified the Bureau of Marine Resources, the regulatory authority, and feels the problems are being ignored.
Gill nets are currently anchored on both sides of the entrance to Buccaneer State Park, spanning some 3,000 feet; on Sand Bayou and off the Clermont Harbor beach.
According to a BMR ordinance, gill nets must be attended at all times by at least one person not more than 100 yards distance from the net. Which leads to Maness' next complaint—unsanitary conditions resulting from gill netters' living on the beach or in their vehicles.

"The Hancock County Sheriff's Department has been extremely cooperative, as have the supervisors, but they have no authority in the situation."
"We have asked BMR to provide us with the wording for a law, but have received no response," he said.
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors have appealed to Attorney General Mike Moore

SBA offers assistance to freeze, flood victims

BY DENA BISNETTE
Seafood and nursery businesses in Hancock County may be eligible for assistance from the Small Business Administration if they were damaged in the freeze or flooding that began Dec. 21, 1989.
Hancock County Civil Defense Director Bobby Boudin appeared before the board of supervisors Friday to tell them that four-percent loans are available to those eligible for assistance. Loans may total up to $50,000 for a business.

"I don't know how many nurserymen we have in Hancock County, but I know we have a lot of shrimpers who are out there starving for help," Boudin said.

A meeting will be held in the Harrison County Courthouse at Biloxi at 7:30 p.m. Monday to explain eligibility requirements and how to apply for assistance.
In addition, Boudin said information is available from his office.

Missing deputy found

BY DENA BISNETTE
A missing Hancock County Sheriff's Department deputy has been found and has been hospitalized in Slidell, La.
According to Sheriff Ronald Peterson, Deputy Sam Necaise suffers from diabetes and became disoriented after leaving home without the insulin he takes for that condition.
Necaise's wife had reported him missing at about 8 a.m. Friday. The deputy was found Saturday morning by the Slidell Police Department.
Slidell authorities notified the sheriff's department, then took Necaise to Northshore Hospital.
"We were really worried after his wife told us he left without his medication. We were searching everywhere we could think of," Peterson stated.

The search included the area near Necaise's home as well as a wooded section of Bay St. Louis near St. Augustine Seminary, which sheriff's department personnel combed because a deputy remembered that Necaise had mentioned taking walks on the seminary grounds.
Peterson said Saturday morning that he had been told that Necaise had been admitted to the hospital in Slidell but had no word at the time regarding when he would be able to go home.
"We're just relieved that he's been found and is all right," the sheriff said.

What started as a reason to get out of his house has resulted in the Mississippi Senior of the Year award for Bay St. Louis resident Erskine Skelton.
Skelton, given the award at the recent Joint Conference on Aging in Biloxi, was named Senior of the Year because of his extensive involvement in community volunteer work.
When asked why he became involved in volunteer activities, Skelton shrugged and said, "I was retired and had always been active. I didn't want to stay at home."
If the time cited on his nomination form is any indication, Skelton is rarely at home. He gives more than 120 hours a month to the Retired Senior Volunteer Program through his work as director of the RSVP Singers.

In addition to bringing music to the lives of those in nursing homes, Skelton also brings color and beauty to them with seasonal door decorations made by members of his group.
Lagasse said, "As an RSVP volunteer he touches the lives of 335 nursing home residents with all the special activities he has organized."
"He has given the singers a feeling of self worth, making each one proud to belong to this special group."

ERSKINE SKELTON

Some of Skelton's activities draw on experience gained during his 22 years in the Air Force and his time working as a nurse and a purchasing agent at Hancock Medical Center.

Skelton also is a volunteer in the Grandpa program at the Main Street United Methodist Church's day care center.
As if that weren't enough to keep him busy, Skelton and his wife work at the Waveland Hospitality Center. "I really like doing that. You meet people from all over the world."
When he's not doing volunteer work, Skelton enjoys playing golf, reading anything with a historical bent, or fishing with his wife.
"I don't play golf as much as I used to, since I had cancer surgery and suffered a minor stroke a couple of years ago. I still like to take my clubs out in the yard, though, and hit pine cones around."
Skelton said when he first retired he did very little. "I sat and watched the television until the soap operas came on. Then I turned the TV off and read the rest of the time."
"I couldn't handle that for very long."
In speaking to other senior citizens, Skelton urges them to get involved in community activities. "Find an outlet for your energy. Find something to do, something that helps others as well as yourself."

BMR enforcement officer gives views on gill nets

BY DENA BISNETTE
 A seven-year veteran of Bureau of Marine Resources' enforcement arm believes that the major cause of gill net complaints in Hancock County is lack of an ordinance regulating them.

"Harrison County doesn't have a problem; they have an ordinance," stated Stanley Hamilton. Hamilton is one of two Bureau enforcement officers currently assigned to Hancock County. A third is currently attending the Mississippi Law Enforcement Academy.

Bay St. Louis does have an ordinance, but it is only for part of the year.

Hamilton explained that he sees gill nets as a hazard to swimmers, boats, jet ski riders and other people using the water.

"When I brought violations to court, that was the exact reason I gave the judge but that's not how it was listed in the ordinance. Logic has it that you're not going to set a gill net 1,200 feet out and be able to mind your net," he said.

"You're sitting in your vehicle; you see a jet ski going and how are you going to get out there to warn them? Even the

Card of Thanks

We would like to extend our thanks to all of Myrtis N. Durel's friends for sharing with us in our time of sorrow.

The Esposito Family

fastest man in the world couldn't do it."

Bay St. Louis had a meeting several years ago and adopted an ordinance banning gill nets year around, but Hamilton said gill net fishermen appealed and the ordinance was amended.

Now, nets are banned only from May 15 to Sept. 15 each year. Waveland has discussed possible ordinances in the past, but currently has none.

According to Hamilton, the original version of the Bay St. Louis ordinance required fishermen to be within 100 feet of their nets at all times.

"That's what I particularly wanted them to do," the enforcement officer said.

He also said a good feature of gill net regulations is a prohibition against giving a gill net license to anyone without a boat.

"But you can set a gill net, drop the boat somewhere and go sleep in the truck," he said. "It's not illegal to sleep in your vehicle."

Hamilton frequently hears complaints from the public about gill netters living on the beach in Hancock County. There are ways around that too, as no one can prove a person is living in a vehicle if that vehicle is moved from time to time.

He also hears complaints about such things as netters urinating on the beaches where restrooms are not available.

"People would have to sign an affidavit for a charge such as indecent exposure, but it's the long way around and a lot of them just wouldn't want to do that."

He believes that that hazards to the general public could be reduced by an effective ordinance, even if it simply restricts use of the nets to the county's "miles and miles of marshes, the unpopulated area."

If the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland both enacted gill net ordinances, the city police department could assist with enforcement, because their jurisdictions do extend some distance into the water. In Harrison County, Hamilton explained, the cities all have gill net prohibitions and the police department notifies a Bureau unit if they spot a gill net or receive a report of one.

Hancock County may also be able to enact an ordinance for the unincorporated area along the beach. As of Friday, the board of supervisors was still waiting for an opinion on the matter from State Attorney General Mike Moore's office.

The county has the authority to have a public hearing on the matter and last did so about two years ago. Hamilton was there.

"The boardroom was packed. There is definitely a very strong public interest in this," he stated.

Hamilton also noticed that nobody who spoke at the hearing was undecided on the gill net issue.

"They were either pro or con," he said. "There was no in-between."

Today is I.R.S. day

Today is I.R.S. Day and there are a few questions to be asked about taxes.

Have you put your income taxes in the mail? Or did you file for an extension? Do you hate the Internal Revenue Service yet?

I sent my taxes last week. I'm dying to find out exactly what these people are going to do to me.

You see, I let my husband Joe do my tax forms this year, federal and state. Joe is quite good at math and at filling out forms, so he probably did them right.

If I sound slightly skeptical, it's because I've had run-ins with the I.R.S. before. What would you expect of an agency that admitted shredding hundreds of income tax forms last year?

For years, I stopped doing my own income tax myself because the I.R.S. did something expensive to me that took more than six months to straighten out. I was working for a small daily newspaper at the time and living in an attic apartment my friend Jim affectionately referred to as "Dena's slum."

Okay, maybe the apartment was a bit shabby but I was pretty proud of myself for being self-sufficient on a gross pay of around $150 a week.

With correct withholding, an income like that (and this is the money I was making in 1983, by the way) meant I should have had to pay no more taxes. I SHOULD have received a refund.

My brother Dennis helped me with my federal form; I thought I did everything according to his instructions but somehow my eight-digit Social Security number wound up on the line where my four-digit income should have been. At least, that's what the I.R.S. finally said the problem was.

I suddenly owed this faceless government bureaucracy, which had been the subject of more horror stories than I could count, more than two weeks' pay. At the same time, my landlord wanted slightly more than a week's pay in rent.

I borrowed the $300-plus from a reluctant relative to pay the I.R.S., having wiped out my savings on college, and six months later this government check for $290-something arrived in my mailbox.

Three weeks later, I got another check along with an I.R.S. note admitting but not apologizing for the agency's error, saying I had been underpaid. I remember the amount because it was odd—$12.47.

For a long time after that, I paid a professional to do my taxes.

Anybody who has ever dealt with the I.R.S. and had one of these run-ins can top this story. Even Joe can. Last year he kept getting notes about not having paid his taxes at the same time he was making payments, and it took a series of long-distance calls to Memphis, Tenn.; Washington, D.C.; and Atlanta, Ga.; just to make sure somebody's left hand knew what his right hand was doing.

Tax time always reminds me of a boyfriend I had at the time the I.R.S. got me. This guy was living proof that the I.R.S. could cause major emotional trauma.

The poor fellow had grown up in Jackson with a mother who worked for the State Tax Commission and a father who worked for the I.R.S. He called himself "the most unpopular kid in the school."

No wonder he made up for it at Mississippi State by becoming the biggest party animal in the dorm. He could upend a bottle of scotch whiskey by the time I met him and it wouldn't even make his voice sound strange. After I innocently asked him to give me a hand with my tax forms, he went straight into Never-Never Land and nobody heard from him again for a week.

The guy told me one day that the I.R.S. was the one branch of the government people love to hate the most. He used to talk about Selective Service because registration had been revived a couple of years earlier and he knew the draft board was the only branch of government people disliked more than the I.R.S.

I hope you have better luck with the I.R.S. than I did in 1983 when you file this year's income tax.

Adopt-A-Highway program collects record bags of litter

More than 13,000 bags of roadside litter were disposed of by an army of 3,642 Adopt-A-Highway (AAH) members during Trash Bash '90 held March 26-31.

Participation in Trash Bash '90, a statewide clean-up program sponsored by the Mississippi Highway Department, was up from last year's bash, in which 2,693 AAH individuals collected approximately 11,000 bags of litter.

The Adopt-A-Highway program is an anti-litter campaign established by the Highway Department to generate public involvement in keeping Mississippi highways litter free.

Trash Bash '90 was scheduled to coincide with "The Great American Trash-Off" a week in which AAH groups across the nation joined hands to eliminate roadside litter.

"Concern over garbage thrown on our highways is growing," said John R. Tabb, director of the Mississippi Highway Department.

He said it costs the taxpayers of Mississippi over $1 million a year for the Department to remove litter from highway rights of way.

In addition to Trash Bash '90, HEAT (Highway Employees Against Trash) volunteers collected 1,842 bags of litter Friday, March 30.

HEAT participants, from commissioners to typists, eliminated trash from sections of roadway ineligible for adoption, such as the Interstate System.

Lt. Col. Billie T. Hughes, assistant Highway Patrol Chief, said Mississippi Highway Patrol troopers will continue in their efforts to enforce state litter laws, especially protecting the AAH sections.

"Persons convicted of violating litter laws could be fined up to $50 by the courts," Hughes said. As of April 4, there have been 1,301 sections of highway adopted statewide. This represents approximately 2,681 miles, or 26 percent of the total mileage available for adoption.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

I realize Easter is not a time to discuss this subject, but, it is a problem which seems to be coming up quite frequently in Hancock County.

I am talking about those "idiots" who have nothing better to do than damage gravesites.

The most recent vandalism has been reported at the Logtown and Bayou LaCroix Cemeteries.

It is ironic that both of these cemeteries are in the buffer zone, and are now located some distance from civilization.

Things like this did not happen before the government took over the properties adjacent to these cemeteries, as folks were close by to keep an eye on the resting places of their loved ones.

I realize the government helps pay the salary of one county deputy to patrol the buffer zone, but, in this matter the county could use a little help from "Uncle Sam" in solving these serious crimes.

There is only so much one person can do with so many thousands of acres to cover.

Family members spend large sums of money to purchase headstones for gravesites of their loved ones, and should not have to suffer the anguish of having those headstones tampered with.

It has to be someone with a minus I.Q. to take a rifle or shotgun and fire at the headstone of a grave or destroy a statue.

People today have to go through enough during their lifetimes not to have to worry about someone tampering with their final resting places when they die.

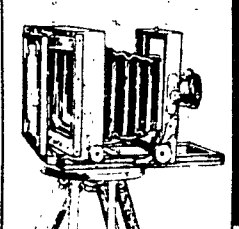

I urge anyone with any information as to who the culprits are, to contact the Hancock County Sheriff's office at 467-5101.

The story in last Sunday's issue about Vita Genna rescuing her great-uncle George Wainwright from his burning residence shows that heroes are still around.

Genna helped her great-uncle, who is wheelchair-bound, escape his Bayou La Croix residence which was in flames.

It is always good to hear about the good things people do, and to know there are still folks around like Genna.

We say hats off to Vita Genna, for a job well done.

FROM THE SENATE

By Senator Trent Lott

Why it's important to aid Panama and Nicaragua

The Senate has approved legislation authorizing spending of $500 million for Panama and $300 million for Nicaragua for the rest of the fiscal year that ends Sept. 20. After the Easter holiday, we will take up the bill that will release this money.

I am not a proponent of foreign aid, but I think this is a necessary investment on the part of the United States to support efforts to establish a free society and a free market in Nicaragua and Panama. It is an investment in democracy and freedom and ultimately in our own national security.

Ten years ago, virtually all of Latin America suffered under some sort of dictatorship. The new democracies now emerging in Latin America are not perfect.

They have had difficulties in protecting human rights and achieving economic progress. Their history is plagued by military domination and their economies are burdened as a result of years of war and Communist regimes.

If the democratic governments of Panamanian President Guillermo Endara and Nicaraguan President-elect Violeta Chamorro are not given every opportunity to lead, military domination of their governments again will be a threat in that region.

America's support of their democracies is the best investment in world peace we can make today. And the success of these democracies means we never will have to send American troops there to protect our security.

Sen. Robert Byrd of West Virginia will propose an amendment to the spending bill which will divert aid from Panama to Eastern Europe or Poland. Passage of that amendment would be a mistake. I support their fledgling democracies just as fervently as those in Latin America, but there are other countries, including West Germany, France and Great Britain, who are in a position to come to their financial aid.

It is indeed cause for celebration that America is overwhelmed with solicitations from new democracies. But the reality is that we cannot financially support them all.

That's why we have to set priorities. In the cases of Panama and Nicaragua, we are talking about countries on our continent, where people can walk north to our border.

Specifically in the case of Panama, we are talking about a country which is actively helping us fight the drug trade, stopping drug dealers, and crippling the cocaine dealers in Colombia and Peru. As significant in Panama is the Panama Canal and the United States' access to it.

The United States can not and should not provide aid to Nicaragua and Panama on an indefinite basis. But it is in our interests to help jumpstart their economies so that private economic growth can occur, always mindful that strong democratic economies in Central America will produce important markets for American exports.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Schools should back science fair winners

Dear Editor:

My son, Brian Ellspermann, is a freshman at Hancock North Central this year. Brian has a science fair project that has taken first and second place in recent shows. He has won the honor of being one of the students to represent his school in Jackson at the science fair on April 24.

Last night Brian called and told me the school will not provide him transportation to the science fair in Jackson. How can a school encourage the students to participate in these functions, then refuse to support the students when they accomplish their goal?

If the students win at Jackson, they will be eligible to represent not only Hancock North Central, but also Mississippi at the science fair in Pennsylvania.

It's really sad that the school won't make arrangements to help these students. There should be some sort of provision made for the schools to back their students.

Sincerely,
Barbara (Ellspermann) Moran

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Senator Thad Cochran

Cochran sponsors bill to help improve student writing

Senator Thad Cochran is sponsoring legislation to help the nation's schoolteachers improve their students' writing.

The senator, a member of the Senate Education Panel, said the bill would provide financial support to a program now underway in 43 states, including the state of Mississippi.

"The recent 'Writing Report Card' which found that fewer than 25 percent of high school juniors can write an adequate, persuasive letter shows the urgent need to improve student writing skills across the country," Cochran told colleagues.

Cochran's bill would authorize federal support for the National Writing Project, which provides elementary and secondary teachers with training designed to help them do a better job teaching their students to write.

His bill would authorize $10 million in federal matching funds to help pay for special workshops for teacher training.

"Over the past two decades, universities and colleges have reported increasing numbers of entering freshmen who are unable to write at a level equal to the demands of college work," he commented.

"The lack of writing skill among our students also contributes to unfavorable comparisons with other countries in areas of student achievement."

"Business and corporation leaders have testified that they are worried about the limited basic skills of entry-level workers. Also, the lack of writing ability has been recognized as a key element of the adult illiteracy problem in this country," he stated.

Cochran pointed out the existing program funded by national awards and private foundation grants is showing "excellent results" at 141 sites, but about 250 are needed nationwide.

In Mississippi, the programs are now operating at seven universities, including Alcorn State, Delta State, Jackson State, Mississippi State, Mississippi Valley State, the University of Southern Mississippi, and the University of Mississippi.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi Economic Council

Business speaks to the budget

Mississippi's General Fund Budget, at the $2 billion mark for the first time, is of continuing concern to business in the state, as well as to other taxpayers.

The complexity of the budget is illustrated with the session-long confusion and conflict between the House of Representatives and the Senate.

The issue: How does Mississippi fund its first $2 billion General Fund Budget, including in the budget the Governor's proposed BEST Program for education reform?

Business has attempted to assist the Legislature and the Governor in finding a reasonable answer to the question. Business, represented by the Mississippi Economic Council, four other statewide business organizations, and a dozen local chambers of commerce, offered a solution.

This was the advice to the Legislature:

1. Make education Mississippi's top priority. Find a way to sufficiently and adequately fund education, from kindergarten through the universities.

2. Begin the funding by identifying existing waste and extravagance in state government, eliminate those inefficiencies and set that money aside for education. Business challenged the Legislature to find at least $50 million in inefficiencies.

3. After $50 million is freed up for education, then, if necessary, enact a broadly-based tax to assure adequate funding for education.

The Legislature chose not to follow the business recommendation.

Reflections

On Life

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

The heaviest drug

Which drug do you think is the heaviest, the most powerful, the most addictive of all? That question, of course, leaves out the less potent drugs, such as marijuana, and hashish, its somewhat stronger brother.

It leapfrogs the more menacing Angel Dust and the new tripper, the crystalline, smokable form of speed known as Ice. This leaves only alcohol, other barbiturates, heroin and cocaine in the running. Which, then, is the strongest of all?

Neither. You may complain that this was a trick question when I respond that there is a Drug which is stronger than any and all of these put together.

However, this superpotent Drug is not a chemical, although many of its effects have the same properties as the most powerful chemical drugs have.

Just ask anyone who has tried this Drug. Once you let your guard down and allow this drug to set in and take you over, the addiction is rapid, complete and incredibly gripping. More than any other drug, this one needs a warning label:

"Immediately and totally toxic to jealousy, envy, hatred, avarice, arrogance, prejudice, bigotry, blasphemy, profanity, cursing, ill-wishing, lying, deceit, addictions, calumny, character assassination, disrespect, lust, greed, gossip, abuse, brutality and all shapes and forms of evil!"

Furthermore, this Drug is fatal to the rollercoaster nightmare of speedballs and barbiturates. This is the only drug which lifts you higher than high without speeding you and without eventually building up in you a compulsive need to find something to bring you back down again.

Warning: This Drug annihilates the funk of depression as surely and as easily as it dissipates excessive exuberation.

Warning: Equally addictive to children and adults of any age. Dosage is practically irrelevant, for even a small dose can bring about irreversible bondage and dependency.

Warning: This Drug may lead to the breaking of all worldly ties, to the abandonment of all worldly goods and treasures, to the forsaking of power, prestige and all other vanities.

Warning: This Drug may drive one to leap the stars, the hurdle the universe, yet, at the same time, to care nothing for the least child, woman or man anywhere on the face of the earth.

Warning: Once this Drug is ingested, the result will be instant, intense, searing fire which will never again allow any more iciness in one's human relations, no more indifference, no more disinterest, no more insensitivity, no more reluctance.

This consuming fire will immediately create in you and all a brand new way of thinking, of talking, of walking, of gesturing, of acting, of reacting, of praying, of working, of playing.

Warning: Take this Drug, and your home will catch fire! Emanating from the prayer cer-ner, you will have fire in your kitchen, fire in your dining room, fire in your living room, fire in your bedroom, fire in your den! In fact, there will be so much fire that TV and similar interests will become totally secondary.

Warning: Once consumed, this Drug will propel you forth from your home full of the same fire, sparking and jump-starting the people who pass you by.

You will set fire to the market place, the milling shoppers, the consciences of sellers, and even the iciness and hypocrisy of the people in the churches.

Especially if you feel sore distressed or worthless, take this drug now! It has greatest of all labels. The name is JESUS!

to decide whether the county may enact its own gill net ordinance, under recently granted home rule.

Bay St. Louis has enacted a net ordinance prohibiting gill netting with 1,500 feet of the shoreline, jetties and piers from May 15 through September 15. Waveland has declined to enact an ordinance.

The gill netting activity is heaviest in the Clermont Harbor, Bayou Caddy area.

"Harrison and Jackson counties do not have a problem because all of the cities have gill net ordinances," said Maness.

Food Fight!

American Cancer Society program inspires healthy eating habits

BY JANET MCQUEEN

The American Cancer Society is encouraging each person to pick up a new weapon to fight cancer—a fork.

The 'Great American Food Fight Against Cancer' is an upbeat effort to convince Americans to learn more about diet and its effect on the risks of contracting cancer.

Franya Ethridge, program coordinator, presented all local schools with a questionnaire to determine students' eating habits in conjunction with the Food Fight. More than 3,300 students in 14 schools (grades kindergarten through 12) responded to the survey.

"Approximately 65 percent of the students surveyed fell into the low-average 'Not Bad' range of healthy eating habits," said Ethridge.

"The results show they are not eating a lot of fiber, cruciferous vegetables (broccoli, cauliflower) or fruit. The students consume high cholesterol fried foods and snacks high in fat content.

"Although 77.1 percent believe their diets affect their health, only 9 percent attained an 'Eating Smart' ranking," she said.

Ethridge and the Retired Senior Volunteers who helped her compile the results noticed a trend in which the points earned for remaining within ten pounds of one's ideal weight pushed a number of students from the 'Warning Signal' ranking to a 'Not Bad' one.

Twenty-six percent of the students responding fell into the lowest category.

American Cancer Society efforts to educate students in the benefit of good nutrition will continue over the next few weeks with the viewing of a 15 minute video, "Taking Control".

The film depicts a futuristic view of mankind, where space-age inhabitants review the poor eating habits of their ancestors. Copies of the ACS produced video were made by Mississippi Power Company on videocassette tapes donated by Wal-Mart manager Joey Vick and Kmart's Good News Committee.

Ethridge credits High Speed Copy Center, Jolly Rogers Printing and Commercial Printing for donating copies of the survey materials and accompanying teacher's literature for use in all of the schools.

Schools participating included Bay Catholic, Bay Middle School, Bay Senior High, Charles B. Murphy, Coast Episcopal, Diamondhead Academy, Hancock North Central Elementary and High School, Gulfview, North Bay, Our Lady Academy, St. Clare, St. Stanislaus and Waveland Elementary.

More detailed information on each school's response will be published Thursday, April 19—American Food Fight Day.

SCORING: Answers receive the following points from left, 0, 1 and 2. A score of 0-5—Warning Signal. Diet is too high in fat, too low in fiber rich foods. Score of 6-9—Not Bad. You're partway there, but still have a way to go. Score of 10-14—Eating Smart! Good for you!

EAT RIGHT

TIPS. Cut down on amounts you eat rather than shop the newest and the devil diets. They never work for long, and they're dangerous because you think mainly of weight loss, not good health. Choose: popcorn (2 cups 108 cal.) over peanuts (1/2 cup 420 cal.) or muffin (120 cal.) over doughnut (235 cal.) or gingersnaps and graham crackers over chocolate chips. Ask your doctor if a nearby hospital or clinic has a weight control program. Binge-eating is out; balance is in!

TIPS. Look for labels saying 4 grams of fiber per ounce in breakfast cereals. Good source: bran muffins. Typical wheat breakfast: whole wheat toast topped with low-fat cottage cheese and freshly grated nutmeg. Fresh blueberries or other fruit. Dinner winners: cup of broccoli or 1/2 cup spinach, boiled large potato with skin or sweet potato.

TIPS. Buy lean meats: eat more chicken (skin it before cooking) and fish. Choose cinnamon apple sauce or red pepper puree instead of home-made gravy for roast meat. When you deserve a sweet treat make easy chocolate sauce that has 3 grams of fat per tablespoon. Use 1 cup cocoa, 3/4 cup granulated sugar, 3/4 cup water, 1/2 cup corn syrup, 1 tsp. vanilla. Watch out for cheese: cheddar has 9.2 grams of fat per ounce; go for part skim ricotta at 2.2, part skim mozzarella at 4.8, or cottage 2% fat at 3.

TIPS. Vegetable stews, vegetarian chili dishes help you mix broccoli, cauliflower, cabbage, brussels sprouts. Dress a vegetable side dish like kale with low-fat white sauce, adding dill or mustard, favorite herbs. Stir cornstarch or flour slowly into cup of cold skim milk until thickened, then heat before adding herbs or spices.

TIPS. Alcohol has lots of calories, little nutritional value, and you double your cancer risk if you smoke too. Cut down. Try seltzer with lime or lemon, add dash of biters; dilute wines as in spritzers; add soda to fruit juices.

TIPS. Dishes high in vitamin C: melon and bean salad, chicken and bean chowder, broccoli and sweet pepper stir fry, baked tomatoes and spinach. Get your vitamin A from vegetable pizza. A from vegetable stuffed baked zucchini, red lentil soup, apricot stuffed lamb, orange sweet potatoes, cantaloupe, pasta plus fresh tomatoes and basil. There's more to A than carrots!

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

TIPS FOR PREPARING FOODS

- Bake, poach, steam, oven-broil, stir-fry, or roast meats, poultry, and fish without using extra fat. Avoid frying, which adds extra fat and calories.
- Ask your butcher to help you select lean cuts of meat. Trim away all visible fat, and use 2-3 ounce portions. Cut meat into thin slices to look like more. Remove the skin from poultry.
- Use vegetable cooking sprays instead of frying in fat.
- Cook vegetables as quickly as possible and use as little liquid as you can.
- Use herbs and spices, onion, garlic, ginger, lemon and lime juice, and mustard instead of butter, fats, and oil to flavor meats and vegetables.
- Use the paste method for gravy or sauces. Add flour or cornstarch to cold liquid slowly and blend well. This eliminates the need for fat.

GREAT AMERICAN FOOD FIGHT AGAINST CANCER TIPS FOR GROCERY SHOPPING

- Don't shop on an empty stomach.
- You don't have to avoid treats or rewards. Just try to think of healthy foods as special treats.
- Explore the produce section. Be adventuresome and try a new kind of fruit or vegetable. Try them one at a time, so they won't seem as overwhelming. Think of new ways to try produce, and remember that it is usually low in fat and high in fiber.
- Look for fresh herbs to season foods, instead of fats, sauces, and gravies.
- A variety of foods is important to healthy eating and will also keep shopping from seeming so routine.
- Read labels carefully. Ingredients are listed in order of quantity. Choose products that have no fats or oils, or in which fats are listed last.
- Beware of so-called "healthy" or "lite" foods. Read the labels carefully for fat, fiber, and vitamin content. Remember that you don't need to buy any special foods to improve your diet.
- Avoid processed, salt-cured, smoked, and nitrite-cured meats and foods. Always buy fresh when you can.
- Select low-fat, non-fat, and skim milk dairy products.
- Buy tuna packed in water, not in oil.
- Brace yourself for a barrage of impulse items, such as candy bars, at the checkout. Prepare in advance to resist this assault by reading a magazine, balancing your checkbook, or engaging in conversation.

CRUCIFEROUS VEGETABLES

Cruciferous vegetables are often referred to as cabbage family or mustard family vegetables. Their name comes from a four-leaf pattern that resembles a cross.

Other than cabbage and mustard greens, cruciferous vegetables include broccoli, brussels sprouts, kohlrabi and cauliflower, all which may help prevent certain cancers from developing.

Diamondhead AARP 4228

The Diamondhead AARP chapter's April meeting featured the new general manager of the Diamondhead Community, Paul Montjoy and Patricia Bales, an insurance specialist with 15 years' experience.

Bales noted the changes in the Medicare payments, differences in long-term care health policies and informed the members on the purchasing of these policies.

Mr. Montjoy's presentation dealt with the improvements planned for the future and the implementation of these in the day-to-day activities. With the completion of these improvements, property values will be increased, thereby eliminating any problem of dues collection. This latter being of the utmost importance since one-half of the budget expenditure is the collected dues.

The trip to the Saenger Theatre was a great success and the next trip being planned will be to the Mobile Greyhound Park. Another trip of interest will be to Lake Tahoe. This will be a four-day trip. Mr. Cliff Couture is planning these trips and should be contacted for reservations. Guests are welcome if space is available.

The National Convention of AARP will be held in Orlando, Fla. in early June. There will be another 55-Alive Driving Course to be given in May in Bay St. Louis, and Bill Gemmell is the person to call.

Curb-side recycling has been delayed. In the interim, there will be receptacles on hand at the Diamondhead Shopping Center beginning the last Saturday of April.

Plans are being formulated for a 4th of July celebration beginning with a parade, afternoon festivities, a happy-hour, barbecue and dancing. There will be a meeting on May 9 at 3 p.m. to plan further for this all-day affair. AARP members will man a bean-bag throw booth.

President Ed Fernandez was presented with the AARP Citation Award by vice-president Dave Ludwig.

Speaker at the next meeting, May 1 at 3 p.m., will be Ms. Robin Berry of the Animal Rehabilitation Center, Long Beach.

LEAVE RESEARCH LAB—Gulf Coast Research Laboratory recently bid farewell to two of its fisheries biologists. Chris Lagarde of Bay St. Louis, left, has joined the staff of Congressman Gene Taylor as a legislative assistant for marine and seafood issues. Malcolm Hodges, Jr., right, of Ocean Springs will be training Peace Corps fisheries volunteers in Liberia. (GCRL photo by Susan Griggs)

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139

The regular monthly meeting of the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139 was held on Monday, April 9, at the Legion home.

Margaret Prevou, president, opened the meeting; the color-bearers, Hazel Wohlschlegel and Christie LaFontaine, advanced the colors; Ursula Favre, chaplain, read the prayers; and Mrs. Prevou led the membership in the Pledge of Allegiance which was followed by the Preamble.

Lou Wilkerson, acting secretary, read the roll call and minutes, and Bobbye Tomlinson, treasurer, gave her report.

The various committees gave reports on the activities of their respective committees. Judy Gavney and Lou Wilkerson reported on the success of the 'Bunco Party.'

Another party is planned for May. More information will be given in the near future.

Judy Gavney, chairman for the Spring Fling, said plans are progressing for the April 20 activity.

Oris Planchard and Roslyn Weathers told of bringing the finished 'bibs and hand-grippers' to the Hotel Reed Nursing Center. The Hotel Reed staff extended appreciation to the auxiliary for the gifts.

Members were encouraged to attend a special meeting on Wednesday, April 18 at 6:30 p.m. at the Legion home for the chairmen of the various committees.

Bobby Tomlinson was nominated as Outstanding Auxiliary Member of the Year for Unit 139.

Anna Gayaut, chairman for Girls' State, said the selection of nominees for this project are near completion, and candidates will be notified soon.

The nominating committee will be Judy Gavney, Ursula Favre and Roslyn Weathers.

The color-bearers retired the colors, the chaplain read the closing prayers, and Mrs. Prevou adjourned the meeting.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

Happy Easter! There's still time for a dash to the store for last minute needs for the holiday time! If you've small children around the house, I'm sure that you've already snapped up the eggs at special prices and have hard-cooked and colored them, ready for the Easter Egg Hunt.

A word of caution here—try to remember where the eggs are hidden, lest you belatedly discover an egg which escaped the hunters! (I did, one Eastertime long ago!)

And, you're sure to have leftover eggs, as the youngsters turn to other sorts of Easter goodies. Of course, you can make egg salad and stuffed eggs, both delicious. But, with fresh asparagus coming down in price in our area supermarkets these days, I shall briefly steam some stalks, chill them, and serve on lettuce, with halved or sliced or chopped hard-cooked eggs, with generous splashes of a good vinaigrette—simple and ever so good.

And, I'll probably serve some asparagus stalks hot, with dustings of pepper and squashes of fresh lemon, and a bit of butter dribbled over, along with chopped almonds, also one of my favorites. Or, again, I may choose pecans instead of almonds.

Another tasty use for the hard-cooked eggs is:

SPANISH EGGS

This is simply hard-cooked eggs, halved, and warmed in a zesty tomato sauce of your own making, or purchased at the store, and served over creamed potatoes or rice, as you choose.

With the specials on fresh mushrooms and fresh spinach and with bacon also at a good price at our area stores, you can quickly assemble:

SPINACH AND MUSHROOM SALAD

1 1/2 lbs. fresh spinach
4 green onions and tops, chopped

10 fresh mushrooms, sliced
8 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
2 slices crisp bacon, crumbled
Tarragon, to your taste
2 Tbsp. capers, drained, optional

Wash and tear the spinach, removing stems. Wrap in terry cloth towel and crisp in freezer for 10 minutes. Remove to salad bowl. Toss with tarragon and green onions. Refrigerate. Just before serving, add eggs, bacon, capers and mushrooms. Toss well.

VERMOUTH DRESSING

1/4 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup dry vermouth
2 tsp. dry mustard
1 tsp. pepper
1 clove garlic, pressed
2 tsp. salt
1/4 cup olive oil
3/4 cup salad oil

Combine ingredients and shake well.—From Louisiana Entertains cookbook of the Rapides Symphony Guild, Alexandria, La.

This spinach and mushroom salad is also delicious with a simple oil-and-vinegar dressing. I also like fresh spinach salad with orange and/or grapefruit segments.

Turkeys are specially priced at the markets just now. Even if your family is small, or there's just you at table, you can take advantage of the bargains. Ask the butcher to cut the turkey in half, roast one half now and stash the other in the freezer for future use. And, as you know, you can make a number of tasty, quick meals from all the leftovers.

Of course, if your family is anything like mine, you'll have to cook some dressing to go along with the bird; I am sure that my "gang" eats turkey just for the oyster dressing which goes along with it!

You might want to use some of that bacon, and the eggs, in this good brunch or supper dish:

CRUSTLESS QUICHE LORRAINE

8 to 10 slices bacon, cooked and crumbled
3 eggs
1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
1/3 cup finely minced onion
1 can (12 oz.) evaporated milk (or one and three-fourths cup half and half)

1/2 tsp. pepper
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. dry mustard
Sprinkle into a buttered 9-inch glass pie pan the bacon, Swiss cheese and onion. In a large bowl, beat together with a whisk the eggs, Parmesan, milk and seasonings. Pour this over the bacon mixture, and bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes or until a knife comes out clean when inserted into the mixture. Let stand for five or ten minutes before cutting.

A variation on the brunch theme, using some of the sausage at special prices, along with mushrooms, is:

SAUSAGE 'N' CHEESE BAKE

6 slices white bread (not the thin-sliced variety) trimmed of crusts

1 lb. bulk pork sausage, cooked and drained

1 lb. fresh mushrooms (to be sauteed in the sausage drippings)

1 cup grated Swiss cheese

1 1/2 cups milk

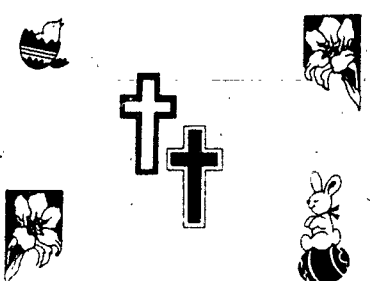

1 cup half-and-half cream

3 eggs, beaten lightly

Dashes of pepper, salt and nutmeg

After you've cooked the sausage, saute the mushrooms (whole or sliced, according to your preference) in the drippings. Line a 9 by 12-inch pan with the bread slices, and sprinkle the cheese, sausage and mushrooms over the bread in the baking dish. Pour the remaining ingredients over all. Refrigerate overnight. Take out from refrigerator one hour before baking, in a 350 degree oven, for 35 or 40 minutes, or until browned. Serve quite hot. Enjoy!

There are also very good buys in ham, lamb, pork spareribs and so on at our area markets.

While dreams of the Easter Bunny, with all his "goodies" drift through the minds of the "small fry" their elders, especially those in charge of the family's food needs and wants, are busy "dreaming up" special menus and dishes for Easter Sunday.

Ham or lamb dishes are top favorites for Easter, but there's also pork and perennially good chicken, among other items. And, there's lots to choose from in our area supermarkets these days, whatever your taste and your budget. There are also good seafood choices at good savings.

And, of course, there must be a sweet or two or three or more, especially for those who've curtailed their sweets during the Lenten season. And, let's not forget to pick up some eggs, for we'll need lots of hard-boiled eggs, colorfully dyed, for the Easter Egg Hunt, won't we?

With so many fresh vegetables coming into the markets these days, it's difficult to decide which ones to cook, so I often cook up several together, as in this

QUICK RATATOUILLE

1 small eggplant, peeled and cubed

3 medium zucchini, cut into 1/2-inch slices

2 large tomatoes, peeled and chopped

1 bell (green) pepper, cut into strips

1/4 cup minced fresh parsley

1 Tbsp. chopped fresh basil

1/4 tsp. pepper, salt optional

3 Tbsp. olive oil

Just combine all the ingredients in a heavy skillet or Dutch oven and bring to a boil.

Cover, reduce the heat, and cook for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. (Eight servings).

If you've enjoyed cucumbers only as a salad ingredient or in tea sandwiches, try this:

CUCUMBER COMBO

4 large cucumbers

1/4 tsp. salt

1/8 tsp. pepper

1/4 tsp. nutmeg

1/2 tsp. onion, grated

1 tsp. fresh lemon juice

1 Tbsp. water

1/2 cup soft bread crumbs

1 Tbsp. butter or margarine

Wash and score the cucumbers, but do not peel. Remove the seeds, and cut into half-inch cubes. In a well-buttered oven-proof dish, layer the cucumber cubes, mixing with some of the pepper, salt, nutmeg, onion, lemon juice and water.

Scatter some of the bread crumbs over all, and dot with a tablespoon of butter or margarine. Repeat the layers until the casserole is full, ending with bread crumbs.

Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. Then, uncover the dish, and bake for 15 minutes longer, or until the top is nicely browned.

If you pick up some of those juicy Louisiana strawberries at the market, along with a box of cake mix on special, you might try making this easy, ever-so-delicious:

STRAWBERRY PECAN CAKE

This recipe is from "Home Cooking," cookbook (of the St. Tammany Parish, La.) St. Tammany Historical Society.

1 box white cake mix

1 small box strawberry jello

1 cup salad oil

1/2 cup milk

1 cup pecans

4 eggs

1 cup fresh strawberries

1 cup coconut

Mix together cake mix and jello. Add alternately eggs, oil and milk. After well blended, add strawberries, coconut and pecans, and mix it all well again. Bake (three layers) at 350 degrees approximately 30 minutes.

And for the

Strawberry Filling and Topping

1 stick margarine

1 box confectioner's sugar

1/2 cup drained strawberries

1/2 cup pecans

1/2 cup coconut

Cream together the sugar and margarine, add the other ingredients and spread on the cake layers. Refrigerate for at least two hours before cutting, for best results.

Another easy and tasty "sweet," if you pick up some of the juicy lemons now coming down in price, along with an angel food cake from the bakery department or a cake mix—or if you've made your own cake from scratch, is:

LEMON ANGEL FOOD DELIGHT

((It's also from "Home Cooking."))

1 angel food cake (9 or 12 oz. size)

Juice of 3 lemons, and grated rind

3/4 cup plus 1 Tbsp. sugar

4 eggs, separated

1 envelope Knox gelatin, unflavored, of course

Line a 9x9-inch pan with waxed paper. Break the cake into bite-size pieces and place in the bottom of the pan. Dissolve the gelatin in a half cup of water. Place egg yolks and half of the sugar in the top of a double boiler. Beat together, and add lemon juice and rind. Cook until slightly thickened, and add gelatin.

Remove from the fire, and fold in the egg whites, which have been beaten with remaining sugar. Fold into the custard, and pour over the cake, mixing gently with a fork. Refrigerate overnight. Top with whipped cream!

The first large wave at the Mississippi Ammunition Plant has postponed by 1 Chamberlain, Inc., the contractor.

According to Robert Burns, public information director for the plant, about 300 workers at Mason-Chamberlain's tile metal parts facility have been notified that the plant is supposed to become operational on Monday, have been in operation since then.

Burns said the reason for the delay is that the facility was the last of its kind to be built under the contracts.

The contractor announced late Wednesday that the plant would not be operational for how long the postponement would be. The last before Mason-Chamberlain sets another "expected completion date," which is the date for the employee notices to the employer for the effective date.
